Bako Ambienda Selected As A Millennium Conference Delegate At The United Nations

7th Annual Millennium Campus Conference

Austin, 02.08.2015, 09:38 Time

AFTV5 - The 7th Annual Millennium Campus Conference (MCC) will convene over 500 student leaders from over 50 nations across the globe this August to build partnerships to advance global development. The annual summit is presented by the Millennium Campus Network (MCN).

The MCC :

Students lead the conversation: Rather than constantly being talked at, much of MCC will be spent in small discussion teams, where you there will be matched with peers to give feedback and discuss the causes closest to their heart.

Global: MCC 2015 will convene students and youth leaders from over 50 nations. Leading youth networks from across the globe are Global Co-Chairs of the Summit, contributing content and delegates to give unparalleled global perspective.

Action-oriented: MCC will utilize their global platform to leverage global youth campaigns on the issues that matter most and thought-provoking, MCC 2015 will push the boundaries of international development.

Students will hear some new and innovative ideas and talk through the topics that rarely get covered in mainstream events- neocolonialism, the role of social identity in development, failures of the non-profit sector and more are topics covered in past MCCs. High-Profile: EStudent will see some of the leading figures and institutions at MCC 2015: global leaders from Secretary John Kerry to our Advisor John Legend have participated in past MCCs.

Bako Ambienda is one of the selected delegate at the 7th Annual Millennium Campus Conference (MCC) culminating at the United Nations in New York City, August 11 - 15, 2015.
